

STAN TREGER

Behavioral Insights Advisor

BIOGRAPHY

Stan is the Northern Trust Institute's Behavioral Insights Advisor. In this role, Stan applies principles of behavioral science to help empower clients to make independent financial decisions while fostering bonds within their family. Additionally, Stan conducts original psychological research on financial decision-making.

Prior to joining Northern Trust, Stan served as a Senior Behavioral Scientist at Morningstar, where he conducted original survey and experimental research on the psychology of retirement, investing, and financial-decision making. At Morningstar, Stan also served as an internal consultant to help cross-functional teams address questions through a scientific lens. Before Morningstar, Stan was an Assistant Teaching Professor at Syracuse University, where he taught courses in psychology and led an active research lab.

Stan earned a PhD in Psychological Science, with a focus on Social Psychology, from DePaul University in 2015; a dual MS in Social Psychology and Quantitative Psychology from Illinois State University in 2011; and a BA in Psychology from Northern Illinois University in 2009.
