FUND COMMENTARY

In the fourth quarter of 2020, the MSCI World ESG Leaders Index (Fund Index) returned 12.95%. ESG equities slightly underperformed broad developed markets, as represented by the MSCI World Index, which returned 13.96% in the quarter.

The top-performing sectors over this time period were energy and financials, returning 28.34% and 23.36%, respectively. Consumer staples and health care were the worst-performing sectors for this quarter, with returns of 5.43% and 5.66%, respectively.

The top-performing countries over this time period were Austria and Israel, returning 47.77% and 30.73%, respectively. Ireland and Portugal were the worst-performing countries for this quarter, with returns of 5.93% and 9.08%, respectively.

The Global Sustainability Index Fund returned 13.01% during the quarter. Its benchmark, the MSCI World ESG Leaders Index, returned 12.95%. Global developed markets got off to a shaky start in October, seeing a slight downturn in equities. New lockdowns and restrictions came as a result of increased COVID-19 case and death numbers in much of Europe. Optimism returned in November, as equities saw significant gains across global markets on news that two COVID-19 vaccines had been approved for use and had begun distribution. The optimism was met with uncertainty in December, as a new virus strain was detected in the United Kingdom and caused many European countries to place travel bans on the UK. The ECB continued to inject liquidity into markets and introduced more fiscal stimulus as a result of the rising infections and increased business restrictions. Brexit negotiations trended in the right direction throughout the quarter, and a deal was finally agreed upon in the closing days of December. Both the EUR and GBP appreciated against the USD on the news. Oil followed a pattern similar to equities, as October saw prices drop. This was followed by a rally in November and into December off of positive vaccine news and optimism about increased demand in the near future. Both WTI and Brent finished the quarter near early March levels. The majority of developed market countries posted positive equity returns, as the world looks to the new year with hopes of putting the pandemic behind them.
